ABOUT OUR G RAIN PRODUCT

Grain is the term for the harvested seed of grasses like wheat, oats, rice, and corn. Sorghum, millet, rye, and barley are all significant grains. Grain products, also known as cereals, are the most significant group of staple foods worldwide.

MAIZE

Typically, maize is used to make animal feed. It undergoes extensive processing to produce a wide range of goods, including cornmeal, grits, starch, flour, tortillas, snacks, and breakfast cereals.

MILLET

Millets are a diverse group of small-seeded grasses that are widely cultivated as cereal grains or for use as fodder and food for humans and animals worldwide. The Paniceae tribe houses the majority of the species that are commonly referred to as millets, but some of them also fall under different taxa.

NON BASMATI RICE

Non-Basmati rice is any rice that is not basmati rice. There are reportedly 10,000 different types of rice in the world, with India having the greatest number.

BASMATI RICE

Long, slender-grained aromatic rice known as basmati is typically grown in India, Pakistan, and Nepal. India accounted for 65% of the global basmati rice trade as of 2019, while Pakistan accounted for the remaining 35%.

I N T E R N A T I O N A L

AROMA International is an export-focused company based in Padra, Vadodara, which was motivated by government initiatives and goals for imports and exports. With our global business partner, we trade in the export of premium quality Indian-origin "Fruits and Vegetables," "Spices," and "Grains and Pulses" at the best prices.

Our products are clean and free of contamination, and the market is constantly seeing an increase in demand for them. On the other hand, customers adore them for their rich aroma, high biological process value, proper sanitary nature, mouthwatering style, physiological state, and most importantly normal. Additionally, we have a tendency to uphold business ethics, which helps the United States of America carry out transparent business transactions. With every one of our international business partners, we tried to operate ethically.
